Mission Statement

Liberty University Press enacts the vision of Liberty University and its founders to impact tomorrow's world for Christ through academically, spiritually and socially excellent works of cultural importance and lasting merit.

About

The publishing world is ever-changing. The Internet is taking power from big corporations and publishing houses, and putting it into the hands of the individual. And, as a Christian trying to market your book through traditional commercial avenues, you may be expected to dilute your faith and opinions to make your work more "palatable" to a broader audience. If you don't, chances are that your name and words will go unheard.

At Liberty University Press, we seek Christ-honoring and high-quality content from all areas of literature that meet the following criteria:

1. Unapologetically Christian
2. Conservative
3. Credible
4. Family friendly
5. Academic

Liberty University Press remains at the forefront of the industry by introducing all the new technologies and services that will help more Christian authors than ever before achieve their personal publishing goals — print, electronic or both, in large quantities or just one at time.

Don't get lost in a pile of unsolicited manuscripts at another publishing company. You have something great to say to the world, and we're offering you a way to say it — Liberty University Press.

“After spending thousands of dollars and wasting a year of my time in my attempt to self-publish, I was blessed to find Liberty University Press. In one month, their team completed the entire publishing process, including a total redesign of my book, and I had printed books in hand. My cost for the books, as well as the retail cost to the public, has become affordable, and I have a professionally published book that is now available at all online and offline retail outlets. Amazing!”
