Report of the Special Rapporteur on the independence of judges and lawyers

The Special Rapporteur on the independence of judges and lawyers, Mr. Ahmed Shaheed, in the course of his visits to several states, has identified some of the challenges faced by judges and the judiciary in several countries. He has called for greater independence and accountability in the administration of justice.

The report highlights the importance of ensuring that judges are independent of political influence and are free to make decisions based on the law. It also stresses the need for transparency and accountability in the judiciary to ensure public trust and confidence in the legal system.

The Special Rapporteur has made several recommendations to help strengthen the independence of judges and the judiciary. These include measures to protect judges from political interference, ensuring access to justice for all, and promoting accountability in the judiciary.

The report concludes that there is a need for international cooperation to support the independence of judges and the judiciary. It calls for the involvement of relevant international organizations, such as the United Nations, to support countries in their efforts to strengthen the independence of the judiciary.
