

Let's Glow Bowling

Oct. 4, 2025

by Emily Patrick

Liberty University - Despite the upcoming midterms week that loomed over Liberty Mountain, math exams did not stop Alpha Lambda Delta from taking a much-needed break from the books in favor of a night under neon lights. Over fifteen society members lit up the Montview Bowling Alley with glowsticks as they bowled their cares away.

Academic Success Workshop

By Emily Patrick / Oct. 16, 2025

Lynchburg, VA- As the October days grow colder, the mid-semester burnout gets hotter than ever. Thankfully, Professor Boettger had the coolant we needed at the Academic Success Workshop collaboration between Alpha Lambda Delta and Student Athletics.

Professor Boetger's panel titled "Tips to Thrive and Not Just to Survive" provided the tools that students need for the last stretch of the semester. From organizing their day to writing Cornell notes, students left the workshop with tips and tricks to better manage their academic, professional, and athletic life.

S'more Fun w/ ALD

By Emily Patrick

October 17, 2025

Lynchburg, VA - The lake may be dry, but that didn't stop members of Alpha Lambda Delta from gathering at Camp Hydaway for a night of fall festivities.

On October 17, the board of the Liberty ALD chapter hosted a bonfire with activities like cornhole, and pumpkin painting. Of course, a bonfire under the stars wouldn't be complete without delicious fall staples like marshmallows and handfuls of candy corn. Thankfully, sweet treats were provided at the build-your-own s'more bar. Of the five Alpha Lambda Delta pillars, members achieved belonging.

About ALD

WorldHelp®

November 7, 2025 -- over fifty students and Alpha Lambda Delta members from Liberty University participated in the Lynchburg-based charity World Help for their annual “Serve the World” initiative. Over the course of three hours, the volunteers packed generously donated clothing that will be sent to foreign families in need. In total, over 16,000 pieces of clothing were sorted, folded, labeled, and packaged to be shipped all across the globe!
