

Edna Udobong

Author

“Trends in Cross-Border Lawyering: The GATS Ideal or the Indian Reality for U.S. Lawyers?” California Western International Law Journal, Spring 2013, Vol. 43, No. 2.

“Legal and Regulatory Reforms and Private Sector Development in Africa: An Overview.” American Bar Association, International Law News, Summer 2012, Vol. 41, No. 3, p. 7.

“The Bamako Convention and the First Meeting of the Parties: A Glance at Implementation Strategies.” Review of European Community and International Environmental Law (RECIEL), November 1998, Vol. 7, Issue 3, 256–263. A comparative analysis of the Basel Convention and the Bamako Convention on trans-boundary environmental damages.

“Trans-boundary Movement of Hazardous Wastes: Lessons from Koko.” African Journal of International and Comparative Law. 1997, Vol. 9, Pt. 1, 130. Discusses and analyzes the United Nations 1989 Basel Convention on Trans-boundary Movement of Hazardous Wastes and its application and enforcement in developing countries.

“Multinational Corporations Facing the Long Arm of American Jurisdiction for Human Rights and Environmental Abuses: The Case of Wiwa v. Royal Dutch Petroleum Co.” 14 Southeastern Environmental Law Journal, 89 (2005–2006). Southeastern Environmental Law Journal of the University of South Carolina School of Law.

Co-Author

“Regional and Comparative Law,” The International Lawyer, Vol. 44, No. 1, Page 577, Spring 2010.

“International Legal Developments in Review 2006: Africa Regional and Comparative Law.” The International Lawyer (a quarterly publication of the ABA Section of International Law), Summer 2007, Vol. 41, No. 2.

Contributor

World Bank Doing Business 2013 (annual publication distributed to over 150 countries).